- Managing investigative reporting from ideation to publication, including brainstorming ideas, follow up on leads, handling and corroborating evidence, developing contacts and protecting vulnerable sources.
- Use web scraping and complex data analysis to find stories like the 13 companies that have earned over £1bn from HS2, including coding in HTML and R to quickly trawl data from online sources.
- Collaborate with journalists and designers across the newsroom to deliver articles, video and podcasts with on-the-ground reporting, commentary from experts and innovative news gathering techniques.
- Cover human-interest stories, like Gisèle Pelicot's rape and assault case and the Post Office scandal victims who died without justice, using sensitive interviewing and a thorough knowledge of media law.
- Promote my stories and areas of expertise on Times Radio, TalkTV and other media outlets, as well as my own social media profiles and contribute to creatives for company social media accounts.
- Create innovative visual storytelling with graphics, pictures and bespoke interactives, like this piece about the day coal died.
- Report on major breaking news events, from elections to riots, creating up-to-the-minute datasets and visuals that cut through the noise and deliver accurate, rigorous journalism.
